About the Project

The overall aim of the project “Read between the lines!” Training course on media literacy is to increase the capacity of 30 youth workers in critical thinking approach by developing skills and competences working with the topic of Media literacy. We see media literacy as an essential skill in 21st Century, where we receive a massive flow of information everyday. Media literacy skills are in our perspective a tool of empowerment which helps us to make decisions, whether in Read between the lines! Training course on media literacy the classroom, the living room, the workplace or the voting booth. Being literate in a media means to be responsible, competent, conscientious individual and active citizen. By implementing the project, we want to equip the multipliers in the field of youth work with this tool of empowerment.

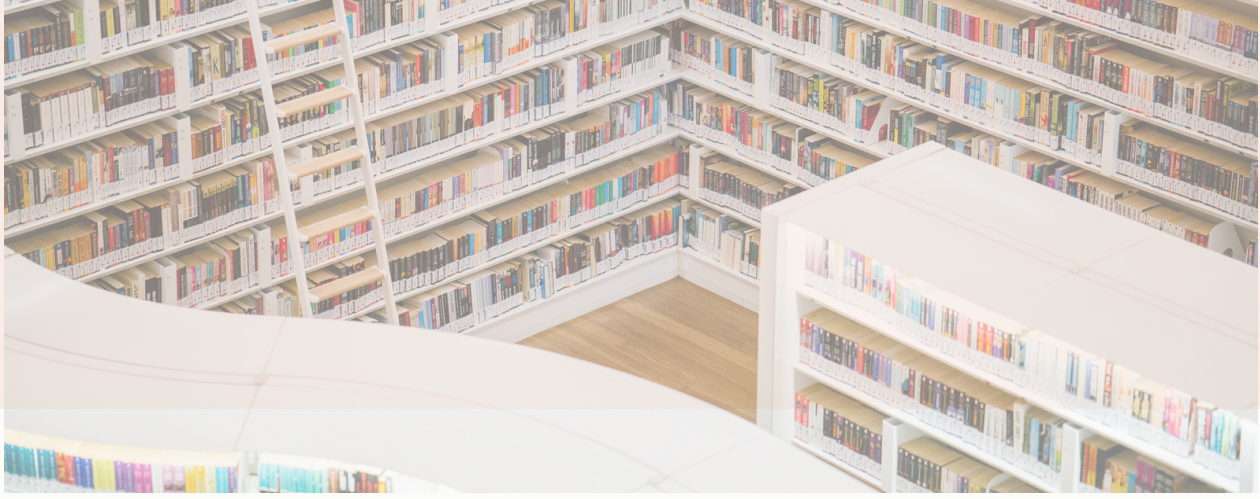

The objectives of the project are increasing the capacity of the participants to 1) access, analyze and evaluate complex media messages 2) understand the role of the media (and especially social media) in shaping our culture, society and public opinion. 3) transfer the critical thinking approach and practical knowledge in the sphere of media literacy to their target groups of young people in an attractive way, making them sensitive to the threats and challenges accessibility of information and new technologies bring along and enabling them to use them in a responsible way.
